All because a man had succeeded in riding more than 2,000 miles on a bleycle in 142 hours and still lived, and a dozen of his fellows had courted insanity and innumerable physical lils in chasing him for six sleepless nights and days, and neither common sense nor the strong arm of the law had interfered.

After 9 o'clock only four tail-enders were on the track, and rumor went forth that a combination of riders and trainers had been formed to hold up the management. Miller came out, however, at 9:45. He was checred again and again. Then Hale, clad in a suit of green tlefts; rode around, and the band played "Killarney," Gray, Beacom and others who had not yet ridden 1,300 miles pushed along so as to save their entrance money. To fill up time a pursuit race was put on, and Eddie McDuffle, of Boston, was defeated by Fred Titus, of this city. The distance was three miles and time 6:25-2-5.

At this juncture Anna Held entered and men to get in front of their fellows around the ellipse.

At this juncture Anna Held entered the garden, dressed in gray, and carrying a bouquet of violets. She was preceded by a messenger bearing a huge wreath of American beauties and laurel leaves. This was a feature of the evening.

Edouard Taylore, middle distance champlon of France, then came on and rode two miles unpaced in 4 minutes 23-5 seconds. This is a track record for Madison Square garden.

At this time an announcer climbed upon the bridge over the track and announced that Anna Held would present her wreath to the winner, Miller, who would ride around the oval with Hale, the winner of the 1896 contest. Miller was induced to come out and ride a two mile exhibition race, paced by Weinig and Nowhouse on a tandem. When he emerged from his dressing room and trundled his wheel down to start, the whole house rose as one man and simply bellowed. "Miller! Miller! Rah for the world's champion!" rose above the din. There is a pretty romance in Miller's ride. He has plugged away like an automaton all week, with but one object in view. A malden is the cause of Miller's rare exhibition of pluck and speed. Bhe lives in the vicinity of Ogden avenue and Twelfih street, Chicago. She has promised her heart and hand to the doughty Teuton. That heart and hand he will claim when he returns to the Windy City.

Windy City.

A hard struggle was in progress through last night and the early morning for second place. Rice, the Wilkeshare boy, despile the fact that he has been in great pain and by no means himself the last twenty-four hours, rode on, with Schinneer pursuing him like a shadow. Between 4 and 5 s. m. Rice and Schinneer collided. Both fell from their wheels, but neither was seriously hurt. About an hour later the two men stopped once more, and it looked as if neither of them could continue.

The trainers and the crowd rushed toward the rail where the two men lay half dead. The trainers had to fight their way through to get to their men. They placed the riders on their wheels and again started them on their way. A few minutes later Rice sild off his wheel and rolled down the incline, crashing into Enterman's wheel. Enterman was thrown headlong.

Rice's wheel was bent and broken, but another was quickly procured, and the Wilkesbarre lad, with an idotic stare in his drawn face, wobbled around the track once more. After Schinneer and Rice had once more fallen they were dragged from the track and given a short rest.

Hale, who has been gradually gaining ppon Schinneer, was in good shape. The winner of last year's contest showed few igns of the strain which he had undergone.

About 3,000 persons stayed all through the night at the garden and watched the fifteen men in their remarkable exhibition of human endurance.
As the hours dragged slowly on and the haggard riders neared their goal, the haggard riders neared their goal, their mental condition became worse. Rice was raving nearly all the time. He thought he had lost his eyes, and became angry with his trainers because they would not give him tissue paper to fill up the eye sockets. A little later Rice was convinced that Teddy Hale was the only friend he had in the world. His pleading with Hale not to leave him was pitcous.

His pleading with Hale not to leave him was pitcous.

Miller, on his wheel, seemed as strong as ever, and his mental condition was not nearly so bad as many of those who followed a hundred miles behind him. But off his wheel, he was as weak as a little child. He had to be lifted from his saddle, and could not stand without support. The transformation which always accompanied his remounting was marvelous.

Waller exhibited that spasmodic energy which characterized his riding when he was in the lead. He was evidently making a desperate effort to overhaul Hale, and appeared to be in excellent condition. Hale kept up his steady pace, and took things quite coolly.

About 11 o'clock Rice confided to his trainer that one side of his head was coming off. He insisted that he would lose it, so a large bandage was tied around his head, and he was satisfied.

The police surgeons made another descent upon the garden just before 5 o'clock in the atterneon, and two of the riders were ordered from the track. All of the competitors were made to submit to examinations, but all except Golden and Gannon were pronounced able to go of. These two men were almost tied for seventh place, and neither would quit the track unless the other did. The surgeons appealed to the trainers to take means appealed to the trainers to take the two men off, but they declined. The surgeons then took matters into their own hands, and the two men were dragged from their wheels by policemen, and commanded to remain off the track for half an hour.

Oh, How They Hurt.

Neuralgic pains are often so acute, that the poor sufferer becomes, almost, frenzied with the intensity of the pain. Balvation Oil will instantly relieve and effectually cure neuralgia, so there is no reason why a moment's pain should be endured. Mr. Jacob Klein, 1036 Main St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "My wife suffered from neuralgia for seven years and since she used Salvation Oil, she has not had a spell. I think it is the best liniment I have ever tried, and I would not be without a bottle of it in the house. I had the rheumatism for five years and had tried a great, many liniments, and must say that Salvation Oil did me more good than any other remedy." Salvation Oil is sold everywhere for 25 cents.

From to 5 o'clock Schinneer, in third place, made a desperate effort to enteh Rice. He knew there was no chance in the world to land drist money, and he determined to cut down the twenty-five miles between him and second place. Rice, however, was not to be no easily disposed of. Hound and round, faster and faster the two men tore at a terrific pace, for almost an hour, but neither gained the advantage of an inch. The race was a pretty one, and worked the great crowd up to enthusiasm. When it was plain that neither could gain an advantage over the other, Rice slowed up, and Schinneer quickly followed his example.

As a reward for their week of pain and torture in covering hundreds of miles awheel, Miller will get $1,500, uside from presents from wheel and tire concerns; $1,500 of this is the winner's share of the $1,500 of this is the winner's share of the purse and $200 more goes for breaking the record. Joe Rice's share of the purse will be $800, and Schinner will get $500; Teddy Hale will receive $350 and Waller $50 less. Pierce gets $200, Golden $150, Gannon $125, Enferman and Rivierre $100 cach and Elkes $75. All the riders who covered more than 1,350 miles will receive a prize, probably $50 anjece.

that started lasted till the finish. No wonder. It was a heart-breaking, killing pace.

Thousands upon thousands have poured into the place day after day and night after night until it is safe to say that 196,000 people have seen the remarkable contest. The race has been a success from every point of view; from the sportsman's standpoint and from the business man's standpoint. The gate receipts will easily reach $50,000, lenving the management a good profit.

Charles W. Miller, the winner, was born in Saxony, Germany, and is 22 years of age. His best long-distance record previous to this race was 459 miles in twenty-four hours at Chicago September 24, 1856.

Reprimand of the War Depaiment Read to the Army-Court Martial Pluding Interpolated.
CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—The reprimand

the day at Fort Sheridan, did not hear the reprimand read. He says that he absented himself from the drill hall when the Fourth infantry assembled. It is customary at retreat call, which takes place at 4:30 o'clock p. m. each day, to line the troops alongside the barracks, but yesterday an order was given to have them assemble in the drill hall. The companies were drawn up in precise military order about the big room, each company in charge of a lieutenant and all seemingly anxious to hear what was intended for the occasion.

Lieutenant George B. Duncan, the regimental adjutant, appeared in the dark half with a lantern on his arm, and in an oppressive silence, while trembling, proceeded slowly to read the reprimand of the secretary of war. He stood before company C—Lovering's company—Lieutenant Brooke standing near at hand. According to the stories of the enlisted men, the reading was not heard clearly by any number of the men. Adjutant Duncan's voice being almost inaudible a few yards away. The men manifested the deepest interest, straining their ears to catch every word.

At the very start the reading was al-word.

At the very start the reading was almost unintelligible to the men. In place of the paper containing a corrected copy of the specifications only a list of the interpolated and changed words where they occurred on certain lines of the printed copy was read, which to nine-tenths of the audience was a jumble of words which required several readings before it could be understood. Captain Lovering, when seen last night, said that the finding of the courtmartial "toned down" the specifications by interpolating words and changing others. "It was handled as if shaken over a sleve," said he, "and the cussedness was sifted out."

The changing of words occurred where "cruelly abuse and ill-treat" was used in the specifications, "use unnecessary severity" being substituted, and where it was charged that Lovering had jabbed Hammond with his sword on the body the word "person" was substituted for body. Other changes considered more or less softening in character were used.

Lieutenant Duncan, who read the paper, thought that all these changes were favorable to the officer reprimanded and made the charges much less serious.

WELCE, W. Va., Dec. 12.—Thomas

Wayne, who seems to be a respectable white man, is now confined in McDowcoll county jail, awaiting the coming of the Insane asylum authorities. The story of the fearful crime committed against Wayne, is briefly as follows:

William Cook, a black man, called "Whitehead," went to Charleston last May and Indiced before the United States grand jury, George Checham, for selling whiskey to him and to another negro named Bob Patterson. A capias was issued and placed in the hands of a deputy matshal for the arrest of Checham. Checham was unknown to the marshal, and when he asked the witness for a description of Checham, they described him as a very tall man, with black hair and mustache. The marshal was unable to locate Chectham, and on November 7, the day before the marshal was to start with prisoners, the "Jonahs" became desperate for fear they would miss getting a trip to Charleston, they pointed out a redheaded man and represented that he was Chectham. This man was prested and taken to Charleston and convicted on the testimons of these witnesses, and was senienced to forty-five days' imprisonment in the McDowell county jail. The witnesses swore positively that they bought the whiskey from this man on election day, 1896, at Feerless, this county.

on election day, 1896, at Peerless, this county.

The man arrested and convicted protested all the time that he was not Cheethan and that he was not cheethan and that he was mocent of the charge of whiskey selling.

After the prisoner was brought back to serve his sentence, some of the clizens of this county, who knew him, began to investigate the case, and found out that he was not Cheetham, but that his name is Thomas Wagne, and that he voted at Radford, Va., on the day the crime was alleged to have been committed.

The outrage and mortification of his arrest and conviction preyed so upon Wayne that it affected his mind and he has been adjudged insane and will be taken to the asylum for treatment as soon as the authorities can come for him.

The matter was laid before

The matter was laid before Judge Jackson and he directed the discharge of the prisoner at once.

Deputy Marshal C. D. Elliott took immediate steps to arrest the two villains who are responsible for Wayne's condition, and he captured Cook and brought him to Welch a few days ago. The other one, Patterson, who by the way, is known by several other names, was captured and brought in Wednesday night, by Acting Marshal Pat Patterson. This last one confesses that the testimony he gave was nothing but person. terson. This last one confesses that the testimony he gave was nothing but perjury. He claims that they did buy whiskey from Checham, but says this man is not Checham. But that while he had gone to look for Checham, Cook pointed out Tom Wayne to the marshal as the man and when he returned and found that Wayne had been arrested, he said no more about it and went to Charleston, and, with Cook, swore that he was the man, and succeeded in having him convicted. ing him convicted.

for eighteen months caused me almost constant trouble. I had a steady aching pain across the hollow of my back which, were I to strain myself, or take a missien would be very severe, and when I would stoop I could hardly straighten up without putting my hands on my back. Were I to sit for a time in a chair I would become so stiff I could scarcely get up, and I had frequent attacks of disziness so severe at times that did I not take hold of support I could not stand steady. I tried different remedies, but without obtaining any decided relief, so when I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so well spoken of by parties who had used them, I came to the conclusion they would do me good. I gut a box at the Logan Drug store and began to use them at once, as my back was very bad at that time. I felt their effect immediately, and in a few days was entirely relieved. I can conscientlously recommend them for all forms of kidney trouble and backnehe."
